

Are you praying for a miracle?

Would you be ready for God to answer that prayer today?

It's one thing to pray for a miracle; it's another thing to get your life ready for God to answer that prayer. There's the miracle, and then there's the mindset.

Sometimes we feel unworthy of miracles—like we're too broken, messed up, or full of doubt for God to work in our lives. But here's the really good news: the Bible is full of story after story of imperfect people experiencing the miraculous power of God, and the same thing can happen for you. This 21-day journal is here to help.

In his letter to the church in Colossae, Paul says, "Set your minds on things above, not on earthly things" (Colossians 3:2). Left unattended, our minds get caught ruminating on earthly things—worry, doubt, fear. But according to Scripture, we can choose to set our minds on the things of Heaven by reminding ourselves daily that God is big enough to move the mountain we are facing.

For the next three weeks, this journal will help you set your mind on things above. We are going to get our thoughts off our problems and onto God—who knows us, loves us, and has good plans for our lives.

Each day, you'll write out what you are praying for, answer a question about your mindset, and spend a few minutes thanking God for the things you are grateful for.

You can't control the miracle, but you can control your mindset. Let's set our minds on the things of Heaven and start believing for the impossible!

The design of this journal is on purpose. It guides you with prompts at times and also gives you space to process and pray in a freestyle way.

Use all of it.
